Hon. Joseph A. DeBoer's position on the governor question is dignified and manly, everybody admits.—Morrisville News and Citizen.

More than that, it is an open invitation.

Even the Ludlow Tribune, which is nearest to Allen M. Fletcher, has nothing to say against Joseph A. DeBoer's candidacy, except that it isn't active enough to frighten Fletcher.

When Editor R. W. McCuen of the Vergennes Enterprise returns from attending the deep waterways convention at Richmond, Va., we shall expect him to begin, forthwith, dredging the Otter creek.

America's tennis chances in Australia are quoted nearer par since Larned reconsidered his determination not to play for the United States. Certainly, the team will be strengthened greatly by the veteran's participation, and there is even a chance that the Davis trophy will be recaptured.

On and after November 15, mileage books will be interchangeable on the Boston & Albany and the New Haven systems. How long before Boston & Maine mileages will be good over the Montpelier & Wells River branch? That is what a great many people in this vicinity are interested in learning.

New Hampshire's savings deposits increased during the last year $3,933,863.67, and it wasn't a phenomenal year for savings deposit increases, either. Come to New Hampshire.—Manchester Union.

Judging by your numerous safe robberies, the advice is entirely superfluous; the burglars go of their own accord.

The Morrisville Messenger says of its only newspaper rival that "it grows better with every succeeding year" and also that "it ranks as one of the leading newspapers in Vermont." There's nothing half-way about the endorsement, and it puts an obligation on The News and Citizen without doubt. By way of encouragement to both, we will say that the esteemed contemporaries are excellent journals and a credit to their field.

Whatever the outcome of the world's championship baseball series, the games have thus far shown up the team with the muckierish tendencies—tendencies which the Giants have displayed for years. The disciplining of Manager McGraw, the firing of the first baseman and the universal censure of another player for using unduly rough tactics in running bases are outcroppings which indicate the tactics employed by the New York team. On such exhibition the Philadelphia Athletics deserve to win.

After stowing away a legislature once every two years, Montpelier found a three days' teachers' convention an easy proposition to handle, even though the record-breaking attendance of 1,300 was reached. The individual residents of the capital city came to the rescue splendidly and took care of the visitors. No town or city in the state could have done better, inasmuch as none has hotel accommodations sufficient to accommodate the convention delegates.

Thus far no great opposition to the re-election of State Treasurer Edward H. Deavitt has been manifest, so that he is very likely to pull through another election. Even less opposition, if any at all, has been made to the re-election of Secretary of State Guy W. Bailey, thus making his hold on the office stronger than ever. Auditor Horace F. Graham, too, is no nearer displacement than the others. The security of their positions is in marked contrast to the uncertainty which surrounds the offices of governor, lieutenant-governor and attorney-general.

According to statistics from the office of the secretary of state, Vermont has 2,199 licensed automobiles, of which 310 are from Caledonia county, representing 6,006 horse power.—St. Johnsbury Republican.

Hitch that horse power up to some wealth-producing industry, and it would mean a far richer Caledonia county, as it would mean a far richer state if all

Columbus Day Celebrations.

The success of the Columbus day celebrations in Barre and Montpelier, Thursday, could not have been more complete unless the discoverer himself had been present to participate in the exercises. Both cities are entitled to great credit for their splendid efforts.—Northfield News.

Both Montpelier and Barre fittingly observed Columbus day and furnished excellent entertainment to the many visitors. Waterbury is big enough and should have the enterprise to do something on such occasions.—Waterbury Record.

Mrs. Nutt's Grief.

Sad indeed is the death of Mrs. E. A. Nutt of Montpelier, who grieved so over the death of her husband that life did not seem worth the living. None of the "boys" who knew and admired the genial "Ed" Nutt, as he was familiarly and affectionately called, will wonder greatly that life held so little for Mrs. Nutt after the death of her husband, or that her bright mind and keen intellect should be clouded by the overwhelming loss. We all grieved over Bro. Nutt's sudden death, but what her grief was no pen can tell. Such instances are the saddest happenings in life and past all reasoning by human minds.—Groton Times.

DeBoer's Candidacy.

The tentative candidacy of Hon. J. A. DeBoer for the Republican gubernatorial nomination is well received by a portion of the state press, as appears from excerpts from newspapers published elsewhere. It is well to remember, however, that opinion is one thing and the thing crystallized into political action is another. With some central organization to cultivate it, the latent feeling in behalf of Mr. DeBoer could be capitalized. Without such direction, we should expect it to dissipate before the effective work that has been and will be done for Mr. Fletcher.—Randolph Herald.

MARSHFIELD.

Lecture course of five numbers under the auspices of the Village Improvement society.

The Village Improvement society have contracted with the Eastern Lyceum bureau of Boston for a series of five entertainments which will be given in the Knights of Pythias hall as follows: The Nordland Girls, Friday, Oct. 27; Mildred Sheldon Bass, Saturday, Nov. 18; Peter MacQueen, Wednesday, Dec. 13; Ray Newton, Friday, Feb. 16; The Gales, Thursday, March 14. In securing these attractions the society believes it is performing one of the functions belonging to its organization as it hopes thereby to guarantee to the citizens of Marshfield village and vicinity, a standard of entertainments which shall be an improvement over the transient vaudeville and other traveling amusements which have visited the place from time to time, and afford a better return for the admission price. In return for this effort and responsibility on their part, the society is very much in hopes that everyone will take advantage of the opportunity to attend these fine entertainments, not only to be present and enjoy them, but to pass the word along and encourage others to do so and thus aid in the financial success of the effort as the society is under heavy expense to get them here. Remember the first number, "The Nordland Girls," will be here Friday evening, Oct. 27. The program presented by this company while strongly Scandinavian in character is calculated to appeal to and delight critical American audiences. The appropriate costumes worn by these artists add atmosphere and picturesque to the charms of rare humor and entrancing music. The general admission is 25 cents. Reserved seats 35c; children 15 cents. Reserved seat chart at the post office.

People on East Montpelier Road and Merchant Street Given a Scare Late Saturday Afternoon.

About 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, a team was seen coming down the hill onto Merchant street at breakneck speed. Children ran for their lives, while hens and chickens scattered in every direction. The driver, however, had perfect control, and as he turned the corner of Main and Merchant street brought the frenzied steed to a standstill; he quickly entered the drug store and as he came out he held up to the full view of the crowd which had gathered to learn the cause of so much turmoil, a package of Peerless Headache Remedy, saying: "This is the only remedy that gives me any relief when I have one of those splitting headaches. I was induced to try one Columbus day, and say, boys, they are the real thing for a headache." Barre Drug Co., sole agents for Peerless Headache Remedy.
